As the waiting missile is poised upon the launching pad, so at the culmination of the college years, the student is ready to be launched into the world. The degree to which this product is finished, indeed, whether or not the student is ready to launch out into the world at all, is determined by the way the student relates himself to the college program—in short—how he uses his TIME.

Mrs. Eugenia Cunningham

On November 12, 1962 Mother Cunningham announced that this was her fiftieth year on Oakwood's campus. She has been an inspiration to generations of Oakwood students that passed through the halls of learning. Her son Elder Charles Cunningham, holds the office of Missionary Volunteer leader in the South Atlantic Conference of S.D.A.

Miss Anna Knight

Service

Retired foreign missionary now residing at Oakwood. Presently she is President of the National Colored Teachers Association of Seventh-day Adventists and has been in this position for the past forty years. (1922)

She has been a lamp of service to many young people here and abroad.

Foreword

"To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under the heaven." (Ecclesiastes 3:1)

Through time there are afforded opportunities spiritually, mentally, and socially. Time used wisely opens the door to these aspects of life and develops them into service for mankind.

Because God has placed special emphasis upon Christian education, the Acorn staff for 1962-63 presents its theme — TIME.

Elder Stafford speaks at Memorial Services

The memories of Elder Nathaniel E. Ashby are precious to Oakwood College staff and students. He was a scholar, a brilliant teacher, and an understanding and faithful worker.

He was a true and noble friend of youth, giving inspiration and thorough going leadership.

His services as a teacher of history and languages at Oakwood College and Oakwood College Academy, covered a total of thirteen years from 1934-1945, and from 1960-1962.

He mastered the art of putting people at ease, and in him dwelt the knowledge of how to mingle mercy with justice, kindness with discipline, and simplicity with scholarship.

With dedication, devotion and efficiency, Elder N. E. Ashby fulfilled his office until he fell asleep in death on July 14, 1962.

Joseph T. Stafford

Elder Nathaniel E. Ashby (1907-1962)

With sincere appreciation, we dedicate this book in memory of Oakwood's administrator, teacher, and minister.

In Memoriam

*He wrote upon hearts
 In deeds that last.
 Not on paper that will crumble and pass.
 An influence felt and a job well done
 Will always endure,
 like the shining
 sun.*

Mr. N. E. Ashby as a Dean

Acorn Tribute to N. E. Ashby

Mr. N. E. Ashby as a Teacher

Just as famous people of world renown leave autographs as symbols of remembrance, N. E. Ashby left to Oakwood College his autograph. He did not have it carved in rare stone by dexterous craftsmen; nor did he write it on fine paper with expensive ink; but he wrote it with his life upon our hearts.

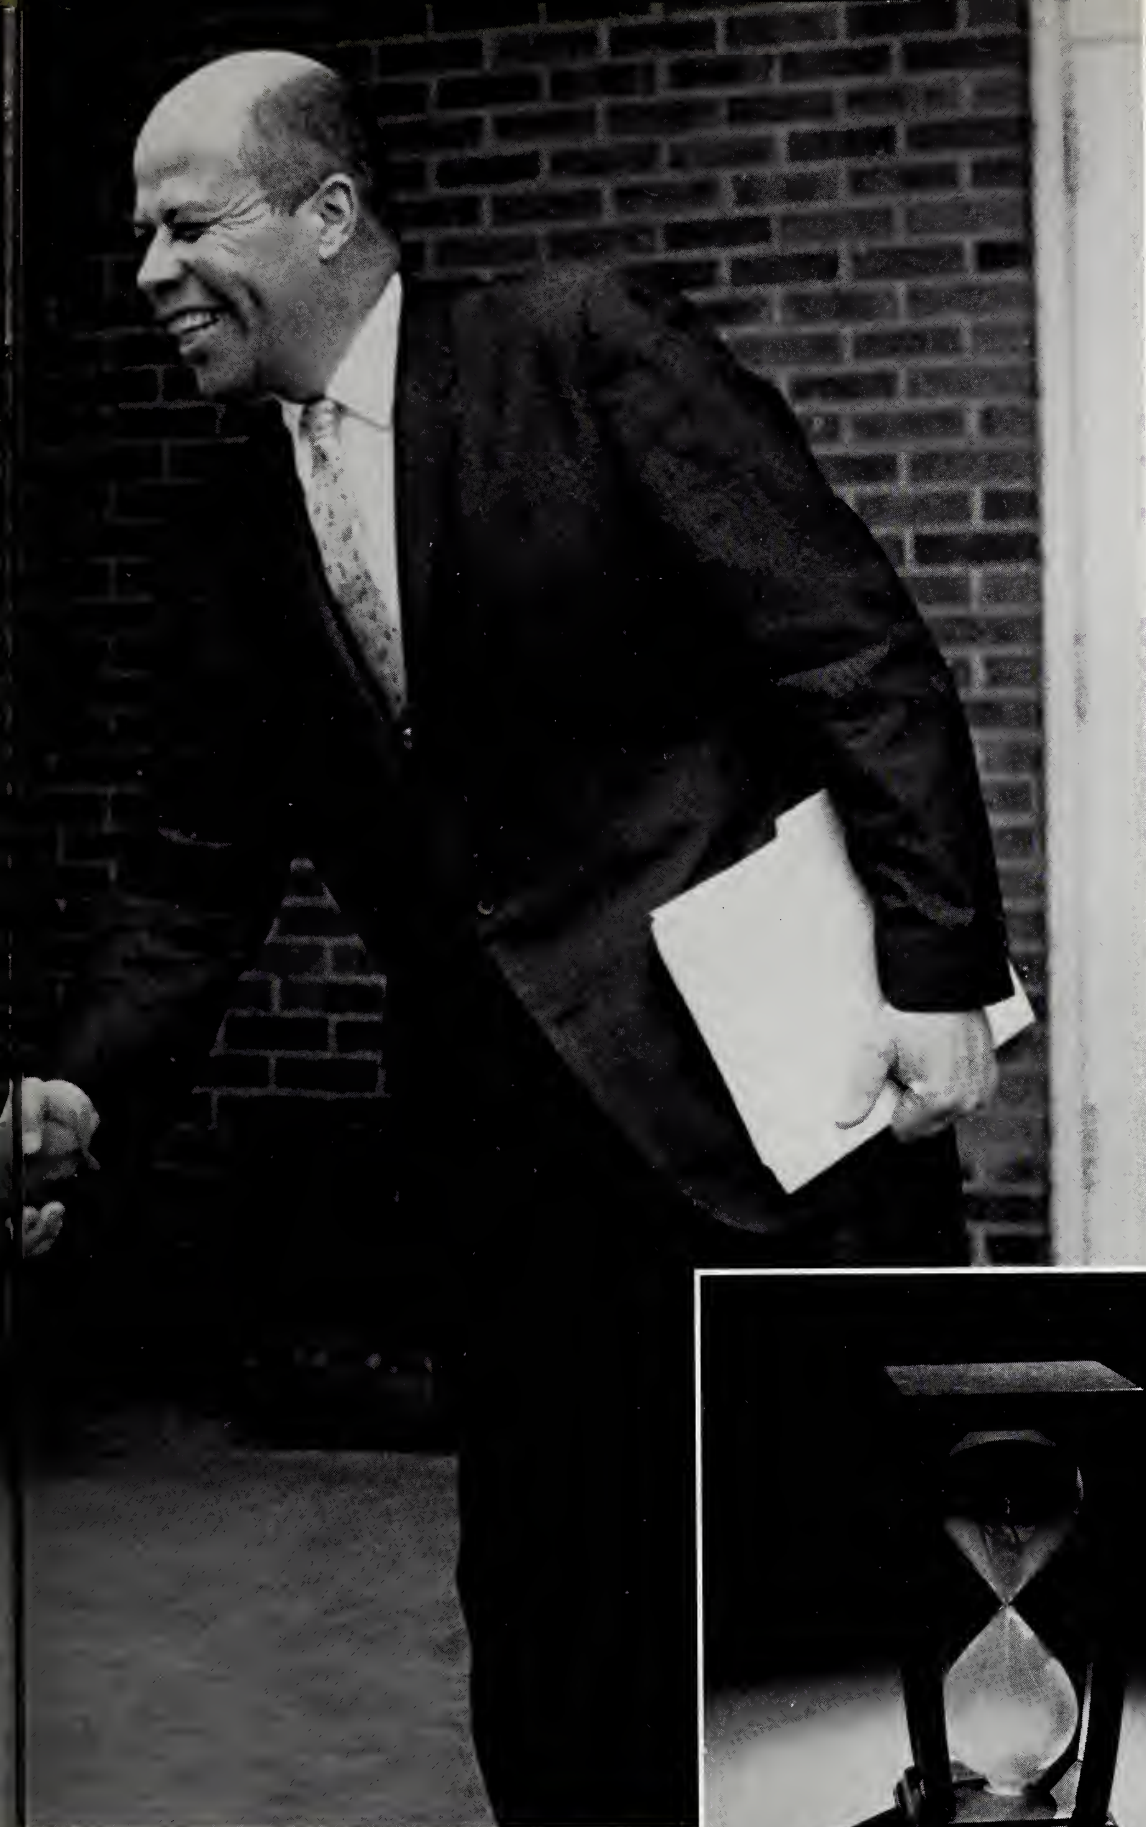

As a teacher, a dean, a counselor, and a friend; N. E. Ashby was a power in our lives. He awakened in us a desire to acquire attributes of diligence in scholarship and personal integrity. He taught us to search for truth and to discipline our minds. All of us who knew him are a part of him, and those of us who have recently come to Oakwood, missing the opportunity to know Dean Ashby personally; can become acquainted with him through the autograph he left with us.

GARLAND J. MILLET, PRESIDENT

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The time-segment of one's college years is sometimes thought to be prohibitively expensive involving a continuing expenditure of effort and money. During these sacrificial days of drudgery and discipline, it is easy to agree with Horace that "each passing year robs us of some possession." But when viewed in the framework of eternal interests, a Christian college education proves to be a blue chip investment indeed! The hours of each passing day are precious beyond computation, and there are fabulous rewards in store for students who wisely improve their talent of time.

Our particular age of atomic power, speed, and space is pregnant with promise; but it is also extremely hazardous and challenging. To avoid the hazards and to reap the promises of the times before us will require unusual readiness. This is the time to prepare vigorously and thoroughly for an even more startling, eventful future.

At this sunset hour of another school year, the Administration and Faculty of Oakwood College want to thank each student who has contributed the warmth of his personality to our throbbing campus life. It will bring lasting joy to review in The Acorn the scenes of '62-'63 which we enjoyed together. Our sincere wish for you is that you will have peaceful days ahead, give service to the Cause of God, and enjoy abounding success.

— Garland J. Millet

OTIS B. EDWARDS, Ph.D.
Dean of College

Mrs. Edwards completed her high school and junior college courses at Oakwood Junior College. When the institution became a senior college, she was a member of the first graduating class in 1945. As a faculty member, she has served as secretary to the President and the Business Manager, teacher and was appointed Registrar in 1945. Mrs. Edwards counts it a privilege to have been connected with the work of the college through the years.

ROBERTA C. EDWARDS, B.A.
Registrar

In his early days of service, Dr. Edwards, from 1924-28, was Dean of Men, Critic teacher; Instructor of History, and he served in the Music Department. When Oakwood became a senior college in 1943, Dr. Edwards was appointed chairman of the History Department.

Since the appointment of Dean of the College in 1947, Dr. Edwards has noticed a pure devotion to the art of teaching. There seems to be a spirit of dedication which has been felt by every student. He has certainly been an inspiration to many towards higher levels of Christian education.

Religion and Theology

MR. M. M. WARREN, Instructor of Biblical Languages

Religion is a way of life. To the Christian, it presents an avenue to salvation and freedom from the cares of this world. To the student on Oakwood's campus, it is his whole being as he uses his time to commune and learn of God.

In the English classroom the fundamentals of living in a world of journalism, grammar, philosophy, and reading are learned by every student. Over a period of time, the student becomes a proficient user of the tool — English.

Music has destroyed barriers that seem to separate nations around the globe. Its universal communication of feeling through rhythm and melody has penetrated the hearts of human beings everywhere. On Oakwood's campus music plays an important role, especially enhancing the worship services. The College Choir, Aeolians, Male Chorus, and other musical groups provide celestial music that cheers and lifts the soul above life's cares.

Mingling with the rustling of our ever-present oaks are the daily rumblings of the not too distant Redstone Arsenal. Men are rallying to meet the mighty challenges of a changing world.

These are constant reminders to us that we too are preparing to meet mighty challenges; not challenges of outer space, but of inner greatness of mind and beauty of character; not challenges of scientific achievement, but of spiritual advancement.

To the accomplishment of this task, through respect, cooperation and dedication, The United Student Movement of 1962-63 has addressed itself.

Principal's Message

Between past eternity and future eternity God has given to man the time of life—a priceless talent. Because of its intrinsic worth, time is not given man to be consumed in self-gratification, or to be dissipated in purposeless activity. Conversely, it is to be improved by the development of character to the glory of the great benefactor.

This is an obligation and responsibility of every rational being for inspiration has declared that “of no talent that God has given will he require a more strict account of our time.”

Of all the ages of life, we believe that youth is the time when enthusiasm, energy, idealism, and a concern for one's fellowman can be channeled most readily into the avenue of successful Christian living.

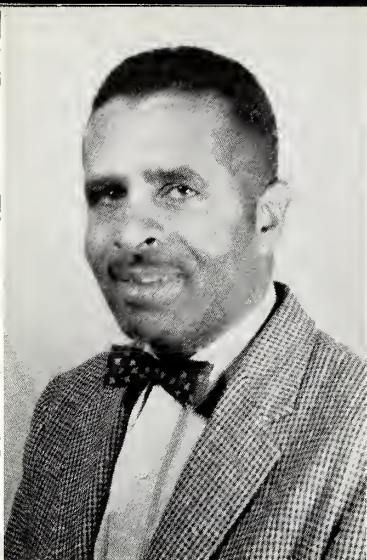

The program at Oakwood College Academy is expressly designed to guide our youth in those educational activities through which they might experience the satisfactions and joys that accrue to those who rightly improve their time.

Our sincere congratulations are extended to the graduating seniors of '1963.

To all students desirous of making the best use of the time allotted for their secondary education, we extend a cordial invitation to join the Oakwood College Academy family.

Here We Come.

We, Judy Annette Simons and Carl Lennox Crosby, represent a group of 150 students now attending Oakwood College Academy. We represent both the happy-this-my-second-year class and the anxious, curious, half afraid wonder-what-my-first-year-will-be-like group.

We represent a student body searching for a Christian education in the Christian environment of a Christian school, a student body seeking spiritual strength in the spiritual atmosphere of a school built on a spiritual foundation. We represent students who want to get away from the public evils caused in the public influence of public schools.

Yes, these are the students we represent, but now let's get a glimpse of this place that will be our home for the next nine months.

Here Judy arrives with the anticipation of having a wonderful senior year. As we meet her she seems to have a personality that will win her many friends.

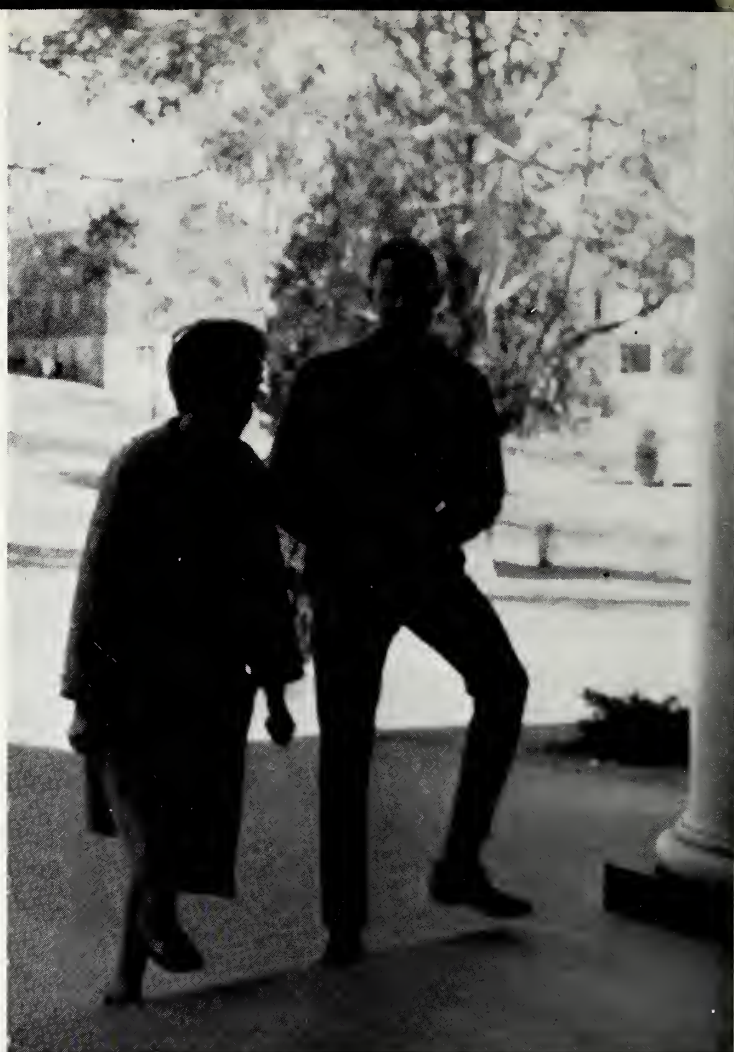

Here in the solitude and refinement of Moran Hall's chapel with the melodies of the Baby Grand Piano our two students relax.

As Judy and Lennox are entering the College Library they discuss plans of reading many books that will enhance their study habits while staying on the campus.

Judy waits patiently as the young lady at the desk searches for the books that she hopes to be available.

Judy and Lennox read the sign in the front of the Ford Memorial Science Hall, and their minds peer far into the future to the time when they will be the scientists of tomorrow.

Our two friends entering into the gym with the anticipation of new acquaintances, opened the door to find more than expected. Due to variation in entertainment they can enjoy themselves immensely, with the various games that have been placed there for their pleasure and enjoyment.

Here they are entering the cafeteria. In order to enjoy a wholesome and delicious meal. Lennox is seen practicing the traditional courtesy of O.C.A.

In this picture we see Judy and Lennox discussing the antiquity and the origin of Oakwood College's Oldest and most Historical building.

Our two model students by the side door of Moran Hall, discussing the events of the day.

Though Judy and Lennox are new on the campus their knowledge of the songs that are being sung is not faint as they sing, "Yield Not to Temptation," their vibrant music along with the others vibrate and echo in the worship room of Peterson Hall.

As the waiting missile is poised upon the launching pad, so at the culmination of the college years, the student is ready to be launched into the world. The degree to which this product is finished, indeed, whether or not the student is ready to launch out into the world at all, is determined by the way the student relates himself to the college program—in short—how he uses his TIME.
